

FEMA Before You Begin Repairs

Because each community adopts their own flood hazard area regulations, you should ALWAYS ask your Local Zoning/Flood Hazard Area Administrator these questions BEFORE beginning any repairs to your property.

1 Is your structure located in the “Designated Floodplain?”

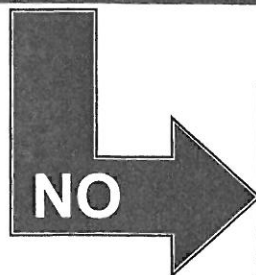

See your Local Floodplain Administrator to obtain the necessary permits in order to repair your structure.

2 Did your property suffer “Substantial Damage” as determined by your local officials?

See your local Floodplain Administrator to obtain the necessary permits in order to repair your structure.

3 Does your structure meet the current building and flood hazard area regulations for your community?

Contact your local Floodplain Administrator or visit a Disaster Recovery Center (during a disaster) to answer Mitigation questions before you rebuild.

See your local Floodplain Administrator to obtain the necessary permits in order to repair your structure.

Important Notice

FEMA is not a permitting Agency and does not give permission to rebuild or repair by your receipt of a Disaster Grant, Loan, or Flood Insurance Claim.
